COVID-19 has widened the breach in our societies and made clear that justice, equity and equality for all must address social and economic disparities as well as the root causes of conflict and violence. Read more Crises disproportionately affect girls and young women – COVID-19 is no exception. The gains made over past decades to ensure that all girls have access to quality education are under threat unless we take urgent action. Read more

In the first few months of the pandemic, 90 per cent of World Heritage sites and museums were shut down, with 10 per cent of the latter unlikely to ever open their doors again. In crisis, however, there is an opening for innovation. Read more (Eng) (Thai) Aziza is a lecturer at a private university in Afghanistan’s Herat province – she has no formal contract to receive her monthly salary, no insurance and is the only breadwinner for her family of seven. Read more

Lockdowns have forced artists and other creative professionals to either adapt or die spiritually while still alive. People have also had time to reflect on what is essential for their lives, families and careers. Read more
The COVID-19 outbreak has deprived students of their brick-and-mortar schools, including about 500,000 migrant children in Thailand, adding to families’ financial burden and struggle to adapt. Read more Information disorder has become personal, as much as it is a societal problem. In Myanmar, it affects almost every aspect of people’s lives and communities – economic, political, social and cultural. Read more Mangroves are vital blue carbon ecosystems that have been damaged and degraded worldwide. This is critical for environmental values, to safeguard communities and to curb the climate crisis. Read more

Forty young people from across the country are taking part in the Myanmar Youth As Researchers project to investigate how young people in the country understand diversity and how they take action. Read more Can COVID-19 be cured by drinking methanol or bleach? Was the pandemic produced by a secret laboratory? Disinformation, misinformation and hate speech can inflict just as much as harm as a virus. Read more

Challenges and priorities of the creative sector in Thailand series Watch video

Stay safe and healthy while back at school (available in English, Lao, Thai and Myanmar) Watch video

L A T E S T  P U B L I C A T I O N S

Global Education Monitoring Report Summary, 2020 (available in English, Thai and

UNESCO Regional Education Support Strategy to respond to COVID-19 download

Guidelines on Implementing Qualifications Frameworks in APat Subject Level

Happy Schools! (available in English, Thai, Lao and Japanese language)

Multi-stakeholder Approaches to Education for Sustainable Development in Local Communities

UNESCO 2018 Asia-Pacific Youth Evaluation Report, June

UNESCO Asia-Pacific Publication Catalogue 2018-2019
Mother Tongue and Early Childhood Care and Education: Synergies and Challenge
download

Media and information literacy education in Asia
download

Gender Assessment of Pre-service Teacher Education in Myanmar
download

Gender-sensitive Policy Making, Teacher Development and Pedagogy in Myanmar
download

Training Manual on Gender Mainstreaming in Teacher Education in Myanmar
download

UNESCO Green Academies - Guidelines for Climate-Resilient Schools(Brochure)
download